Description As a user, I want to see burndown chart with day by day in the sprint, and the graph can show data of pending effort and estimated effort when clicking or near to the point, not only the curve, like the attachment effect.

I think adding this feature is necessary to get each day's effort precise value from the chart.

When move mouse button to the point of pending effort and estimated effort in the curve, there wil display the value like the attachment picture.
